

Grants for Graduate Student Workshops and Conferences

The Weatherhead Center for International Affairs offers grants to support graduate student workshops and conferences. The research presented must relate to the interests of the Center, i.e., research focused on international, transnational, global, and comparative issues. The students must be enrolled in a doctoral program in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences or one of the professional schools. Grants are generally in the $500-2,500 range, but the Center will consider requests for larger amounts. While the Center welcomes all applications, preference will be given to applications from Weatherhead Center-affiliated graduate students.

Application procedure: Applications should include a one- to two-page description of the event, including its theme/s, goals, and intended audience; a list, if known, of the graduate students, and their research topics, who will be presenting at/benefiting from the event; a conference agenda (a draft is acceptable); and a budget, including other confirmed or potential sources of funding, along with a completed application cover sheet. Please see the next page for the application cover sheet.

Please submit all application materials as a PDF to Ann Townes at atownes@wcfia.harvard.edu.

After the event, grant recipients must submit a brief summary report on the event to the Weatherhead Center.
